

The Egyptian Exchange (EGX) Announces the Semi-annual Review of its Market Indices

The Egyptian Exchange (EGX) announces that the following semi-annual indices review changes will become effective on Sunday, 1 February 2026.

EGX30 index witnessed a change in 4 companies, while EGX70 EWI witnessed an exclusion of 22 companies; 3 of which joined EGX30, while 21 companies were added. EGX100 EWI witnessed an exclusion of 19 companies and an inclusion of 18 companies.¹

EGX33 Shariah index, which includes the most compliant companies with Shariah among the highly liquid companies, witnessed a change in 4 companies.

Additionally, EGX35-LV index, which includes companies with the lowest price volatility among the highly liquid companies, witnessed an exclusion of 11 companies and an inclusion of 10 others.

For more details about the eligibility criteria of EGX indices, please refer to the indices' methodologies on EGX website.

EGX conducts the semi-annual rebalance for its indices at the beginning of February and August of every year, whereby constituents are reviewed according to their respective methodologies.

As for the treasury bonds index, 4 issues of treasury bonds were added, and 14 were deleted, thus bringing the total number of bonds in the index to 18 issues. Worth mentioning that the Egyptian Exchange conducts a monthly review of treasury bond indices, according to the inclusion and exclusion criteria of the indices methodology.

The following changes will be implemented as of February 1st, 2026.
